

Matt Havens

Introduction to Stage

Disclaimer: I invite whoever is introducing me to stage to take creative liberties with the introduction. You could make up a list of fake accomplishments, or tell false stories about how we met. The more fun you have with it, the more fun the audience will feel as the event begins. And don't worry - you can't embarrass me. If anything, I might steal your ideas for future events!

If that idea makes you uncomfortable or you prefer to stick to script, please use the following introduction:

Our next speaker once climbed Mt. Everest, rode a camel in the Sahara, won the Heisman Trophy, and was even elected into the board of his Homeowners Association. He's also extremely sarcastic and didn't accomplish any of those feats.

In all seriousness, Matt has worked in, and with, Fortune 100 companies all across America, determined to help audiences get out of our heads into a culture of simplicity.

He is one of the most entertaining and unorthodox speakers you likely haven't seen yet. Ladies and gentlemen, please help me welcome Matt Havens.
